

ABUS | THE SECURITY LOCK

In 1924, the locksmith August Bremicker and four of his sons took the risk to set up their own business and started production of padlocks in the village of Volmarstein. Great commitment and diligence led to a successful start in an already highly competitive environment. More than ten businesses already produced padlocks in Volmarstein at that time. If nothing else, the company's philosophy based on Christian faith helped facilitate its quick and healthy development. The vision of the founder family: Create products that protect people's lives and secure their belongings. A commitment to quality from the very beginning was the start of an ongoing success story. The brand ABUS became synonymous with security. The padlock manufacturer became a globally operating group of companies for preventive security technology. Today, the ABUS Group offers solutions for domestic, commercial, and mobile security. In these fields, ABUS branded products stand for exemplary quality, made from top-notch raw materials by the best skilled labour. This standard is applied to all ABUS security products at all production sites and creates their very own internationally accepted seal of approval: "ABUS Security Tech Germany" at home in production and distribution around the world. A solid foundation for first-class quality that scores highly time and time again in independent product tests.

